on the cover:

Our cover model is a student at Elizabeth Seton Children's School in Westchester County, New York. Her smile just brightened our day! The teachers there say she is always a delight to work with. Above, our President and CEO, Seth Kanor, shows her how Melody Bells (#2406, pg. 56) works. As you can see, she loves it! Melody Bells is just one of the new music products we've introduced in the past few months. Take a look at the incredible Music Master (#2219, pg. 53) and the Super Sounds Guitar (#1664, pg. 53). We brought all these new items to Elizabeth Seton for in-the-field product testing and the students were delighted with all three. "There's nothing like seeing the kids play with our products—it is so rewarding to watch their eyes light up as they discover how each works," says Seth. "And we learn so much about how to make our products even better."

Many, many years ago, my father began designing our first communicator with some electronic components that he'd glued onto a piece of cardboard. This early AAC device was rudimentary, but in the years that followed, we listened to feedback from teachers and students and our rudimentary communicator began to evolve. With your help, we were able to develop a varied line of devices tailored to the specific needs of our community.

Over the last two years, these devices have taken big leaps forward. For example the 7-Level Communication Builder (#7075) now allows the user to switch frames throughout level changes without losing messages. In addition, all of our sequencing communicators now carry unused message time over to the following messages, giving the user and teacher more flexibility. Furthermore, the total record time on our more advanced communicators has gone from five minutes to eight minutes.

This may not sound particularly dramatic to the average person. But those of you who depend on AAC devices—or whose family members depend on AAC devices—understand the importance of reliable communicators.

My father certainly did. Many years ago, while testifying before Congress, he held up one of our communicators and began speaking. "This is not an electronic device," he said. "This is somebody's voice."

Take our long-time customer McKenzie Tuckson, for example. Diagnosed with Rett's syndrome as a child, McKenzie was non-verbal. But with the help of our AAC devices, McKenzie has accomplished what might seem impossible.

She was vice president of the junior and senior classes at Whites Creek High School; the 2019 Westley-Rice Student Advocate of the Year for Tennessee; the 2022 Westley Morgan Tennessee Titans Community Hero; and the first non-verbal ambassador for Metro Nashville Public Schools. She is currently employed at Bubble Love Tea, is an advocate and public speaker, and she and her mother just published a book together about her journey.

That's what McKenzie has been able to do. But it's not just about achievement. AAC devices allow the voiceless to express joy, or pain, or need. They allow children to play, to learn, to communicate. Our job is to make the device that suits your need.

But it's just a device until it's in your hands. And then it's yours. Your unique voice.

☀ explore kits and bundles for all kinds of classrooms

#756 Bongo Drums

Classroom kits are a fast and easy way to outfit your special needs classroom with a variety of products to suit different students. Our Classroom Communication Kits, for example, contain low- and mid-tech AAC devices including Go! Boards, Talkables, Put-Em-Arounds and sequencers. The Classroom Switch Kit (pg. 8) has nine different switches to accommodate a range of needs. There’s even an Autism Spectrum Disorder Kit (pg. 8) with products to assist with communication, organizational skills, and sensory input. The Adapted Music Kit (pg. 7) is designed for both music teachers, music therapists, and general therapy use. And there is a specially designed Kit for the Visually Impaired (pg. 9) that includes five different communicators, high contrast icons, brightly colored and illuminated switches and VI friendly games.

Shape Talker + Switch

The Shape Talker + Switch takes shape sorting to another level. Unlike traditional shape sorters, the Shape Talker + Switch adds an audio reward. Record your custom message that will play when the shapes are correctly matched and pressed into the base (e.g., "Yay! You matched the green triangle!"). Substitute the shape blocks for the included colored discs to use the device in finger isolation exercises. And it's a switch, too, for any switch-adapted toy. Plug in the toy and press any of the four shapes to activate it. The versatile Shape Talker + Switch can meet the needs of multiple students and be used as reinforcement at home. Includes sturdy base with non-slip feet, four colored shape blocks, four colored shape discs, and four white shape discs. The device also has a pass through slot on the bottom to accommodate a strap (up to 1.4" wide) that can be used to secure it to a table. Size: 6"L x 5"W x 2½"H. Requires 4 AAA Batteries. AAC Device Basics

Augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) devices vary in technology and sophistication. Low-tech devices can be as simple as pictures or words on a board that the user points to. Mid- and high-tech devices, whether a standalone device or an app on an iPad, tend to be voice-output, meaning they "speak" for the user.

Most of Enabling Devices' AAC products are voice-output devices. A speech-language pathologist, teacher, OT or family member records the desired message and the user plays the message by activating a switch. Devices range from one message (#4595 One Message Communicator, pg. 21) to multiple messages (#3206 32-Message Communicator, pg. 17), gaining in complexity as the user's skills increase.

How do you choose?

We advise that you work with a professional to determine the right communication device for your student or family member. An SLP or other practitioner can evaluate the user's physical and cognitive abilities to match an AAC device with him or her. The professional will also know how to introduce the device and can advise family and friends on how to assist in the process.

Because we design and manufacture our communicators, we can help you understand the capabilities of each of our products. Our knowledgeable staff is always ready to assist you and answer any questions you have about any of our products. Call us at 800.832.8697 or email us at sales@enablingdevices.com. We're here to help!

touchscreens are accessible with switches & styluses

#1164 iPad Wireless Switch

iPads are designed to help users create, communicate, learn and play. These ubiquitous tablets are as powerful as a computer and come with accessibility features such as Assistive Touch, Guided Access and other customization options and features.

But for people with mobility problems, vision impairment and other conditions, the slim design of iPads, as well as their touchscreens, can make accessing apps a challenge. Adaptive devices from Enabling Devices can help.

Our products for iPads include systems for mounting the tablets to wheelchairs and other surfaces (pg. 27), as well as switches for activating apps. Accessories for those who live with mobility and vision impairment also include styluses that make it easier to draw and write with the iPad.

the right mount makes life so much easier

#1601 EZ Mount Tray for Bright Red Switch

Mounts that position devices exactly where they are needed are critical for those with mobility issues. They hold switches, communicators, phones and other needed items securely at the proper height to reduce discomfort or fatigue.

Our newest generation of mounts, EZ Mount Trays and Adapters (left and pg. 28), are a “game-changer,” says our in-house occupational therapist, because of their versatility and affordability. EZ Mount Trays replace bulky mounting plates with lightweight yet durable snap-in trays. There’s a tray for our most popular communicators and more on the way. These 3D-printed trays strap easily to the arm of a wheelchair or mount to a tubular rail or traditional arm mount with the adapters (sold separately).

Clip Clamp

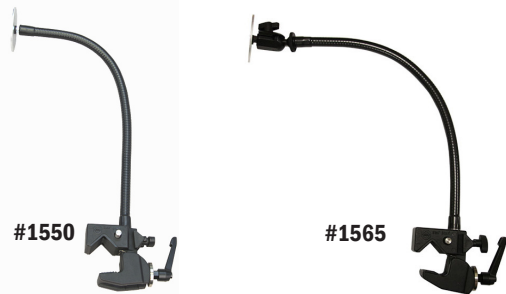

Clip Clamps are oh so convenient and have so many uses! Great for positioning items including Eye Talks, photos or icons where they are easy to see, and easily mounts on wheelchair trays, tabletops or bedrails. Comes with 24" flexible tubing, super clamp and hand clamp. Size: 27"H. Weight: 2¼ lbs.

sensory products promote calm and enhance focus

Sensory products help people with sensory sensitivities engage their senses—touch, smell, sight, taste and hearing—in a positive way. Dedicated sensory spaces can also help children enhance their fine and gross motor skills alongside their auditory, visual and tactile processing abilities. These spaces can be especially helpful for children with disabilities that affect their vestibular and proprioceptive systems, which control balance and the body's ability to sense motion within its parts.

At Enabling Devices, we offer trusted products that can benefit children and adults with sensory needs. Our goal is to create products that engage the imagination, build cognitive and motor skills, and help kids and adults become comfortable with new sensations. We offer free sensory room design services, too. Whatever your budget, we'll put together a sensory space that meets your needs. Visit us online at enablingdevices.com and click Services to learn more, or call us at 800.832.8697.

☀ switches open up a whole world of possibilities

#722 Textured Saucer Switch

Switches are the gateway to independence for people with special needs. They allow the user to activate a myriad of switch adapted devices, including toys, electronics, appliances and more. Enabling Devices’ switches come in various colors, shapes and sizes to suit different needs.

When choosing a switch, consider the following:

- How sensitive does the switch need to be?
- How large an activation surface is needed?
- Does the user need an auditory, visual or tactile cue that the switch has been activated?
- Which part of the body will the person be using to activate the switch?
- Does the switch need to be mounted?

We have a handy guide to choosing the right switch for your needs online. Visit enablingdevices.com/comparison-charts/ for a Capability Switches Comparison Chart.

toys and games build skills and spark joy

#2201 Mini Carillon

Our company was founded on the premise that all children should have toys that are accessible, educational and just plain fun! We have a large selection of toys and games that help parents, teachers and therapists build motor and cognitive skills in individuals with disabilities.

Many of our toys can be used to achieve multiple goals. For example, the Sensational Textured Activity Center (#2251, pg. 57), is bursting with textures, sights and sounds that can address more than a dozen therapeutic learning goals. Its mirrors, fans, music, songs, lights and sound effects increase visual attention and tracking; encourage reaching, swiping and grasping; increase auditory development, and more.

Our Skills Development Chart online will help you choose the right toys and games based on the individual learning goals. You can view or download it at enablingdevices.com/activity-guides-product-tips/ or call us for personal assistance at 800.832.8697.

a range of products to develop ADL skills

#5061 Tube Tracker

Adaptive training tools help people with disabilities learn and perform activities of daily living (ADLs) by bridging the gap between their abilities and the activity. They make it easier for someone with a disability to practice an ADL so they can apply it to life at home, school and work. We carry products that assist with writing, operating appliances, gardening, cooking, crafting and dressing.

Our Slant Board (#3200, below) is extremely popular because of its ergonomic design, which encourages proper wrist position and improves posture and stability. Combine with a Weighted Handwriting Glove (#3974, pg. 75) for new writers. The Battery Operated Scissors (#9080, pg. 74) are a must for art class and crafting. Our Pouring Cups (#20, below) are also a bestseller and can be used for both cooking and craft projects.

Our Story

Since 1978, Enabling Devices has been creating and adapting toys, tools, devices and assistive technology for children, teens and adults with a variety of disabilities. From the beginning, the company's primary mission has been meeting the needs of its customers and developing products that enrich their lives. Personalized customer service is emblematic of the company's people-centered approach. As always, we welcome customers' calls and comments, and whenever possible, are happy to provide personalized solutions. With the right tools, people with disabilities are doing great things and finding great joy in their lives. Our mission is to increase their joy as much as possible.

cannot be returned. Items that are non-returnable (these items are noted) can still be repaired. Items being returned in bulk (quantity of 10 or more) have a 20% re-stocking fee.

DAMAGED/DEFECTIVE

Please notify us within 10 days of receipt of any discrepancies, items damaged in shipping and/or faulty items. For damage claims, please include a picture of the outer packaging. Free Technical Support is available by phone 800-832-8697 or email customer_support@enablingdevices.com. We may be able to troubleshoot the problem and avoid having the item returned.

PLEASE NOTE: There is a $35 (domestic) and a $50 (international) diagnostic fee for each returned item found to be in good working order. Also, customers are responsible for return shipping costs if items are found to be in good working order, were ordered by the customer incorrectly, or if the item is not suitable. All items returned for credit/refund must be shipped to us unmarked and in original packaging.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO READ BEFORE CALLING

Checking the batteries to make sure that they are fresh and properly installed can prevent 95% of all returns. We recommend alkaline batteries be used. Any of our products that have been switch-adapted will only work with "mono" adapters and will not work with "stereo" adapters. If you are having trouble with a product, please refer to the troubleshooting tips in your user's guide.

RETURN AUTHORIZATION

All items MUST have a Return Authorization Number before being sent back. You can obtain an RA# by going online to enablingdevices.com/return-warranty-policy/ or by calling us at 800-832-8697x6. Please have your invoice number or customer number available as this will help to expedite the return process. To ensure efficient delivery, we suggest you send your return via a trackable method.

refunds/credits

You are entitled to a refund/company credit on most items (except where noted) within 30 days of delivery. Items being returned must be in new condition and unmarked. Any item that has been written on with permanent marker or has stickers/labels on it cannot be returned for a refund, a credit or an exchange. All original packaging, accessories and manuals must be included. Custom/Special orders or final sale items

warranties

For U.S. and Canada purchases, there is a one year warranty on communicators and switches. For all other products there is a 90 day warranty for manufacturing defects unless noted on our website. Items under warranty will be repaired free of charge pending inspection. There will be a charge for repair and return shipping and handling on all items out of warranty. For international customers, please visit our website www.enablingdevices.com for warranty information. If you have any questions regarding returns, repairs, and warranty information or if you would like a repair fee quote, please contact us at 800-832-8697 X6 or email returns@enablingdevices.com. Please note that these time frames and repair fees are as stated and cannot be changed. Repairs, alterations or modifications done by someone other than Enabling Devices, as well as misuse or abuse of items, will automatically void our warranty.

substitutions

Due to ever changing demand, certain toys may be discontinued by their manufacturer. If a substitution of a similar toy must be made, it will be of equal value. Our products are continually being improved and so the appearance of the product in the photo may slightly differ from what you receive. Please be assured that you will always receive the latest version.
